NATIONAL POLICY FORUM
(NPF)

ANNUAL REPORT
2024

Message from the Founder

To each of us, for whom the nation and the purpose of nation-building come first, our hearts undeniably ache for the loss of every hour, every opportunity, every idea, or every conversation that could have taken us forward, even by an inch, towards our ultimate aspiration for shared prosperity and an awakened future. In search of passion, vision, and partnerships for enduring success in our cause and mission of a prosperous nation, the National Policy Forum (NPF) was established to bring minds together, spark meaningful conversations, institutionalize networks through value, and inspire reforms.

In a competitive world, Nepal has struggled to assert its presence in a way that is seen, heard, and valued. For too long, we have failed to find a new identity, a new hope, and a new idea of Nepal—not merely characterized by the natural wonders bestowed upon us by the heavens or illuminated by the grandeur of our august history, but rather defined by our united strength, global competence, scientific brilliance, and a self-created destiny manifested through hope, honesty, hard work, and, most importantly, an indomitable spirit of progress.

Today, as we stand, before us lies unimaginable potential with an impressively young population, exponentially advancing technology, a diversified diaspora, and neighboring economies that are magnificently growing. The nature of reward is such that it does not come to those who wait, but almost exclusively to those who persevere. Nepal stands at the crossroads of profound hope and prolonged despair, and we must choose hope—and we must choose to be rewarded.

The barricade that stands before us and our ultimate aspirations is our ill-informed policies, a lost congruence of vision, and a series of poor governance.

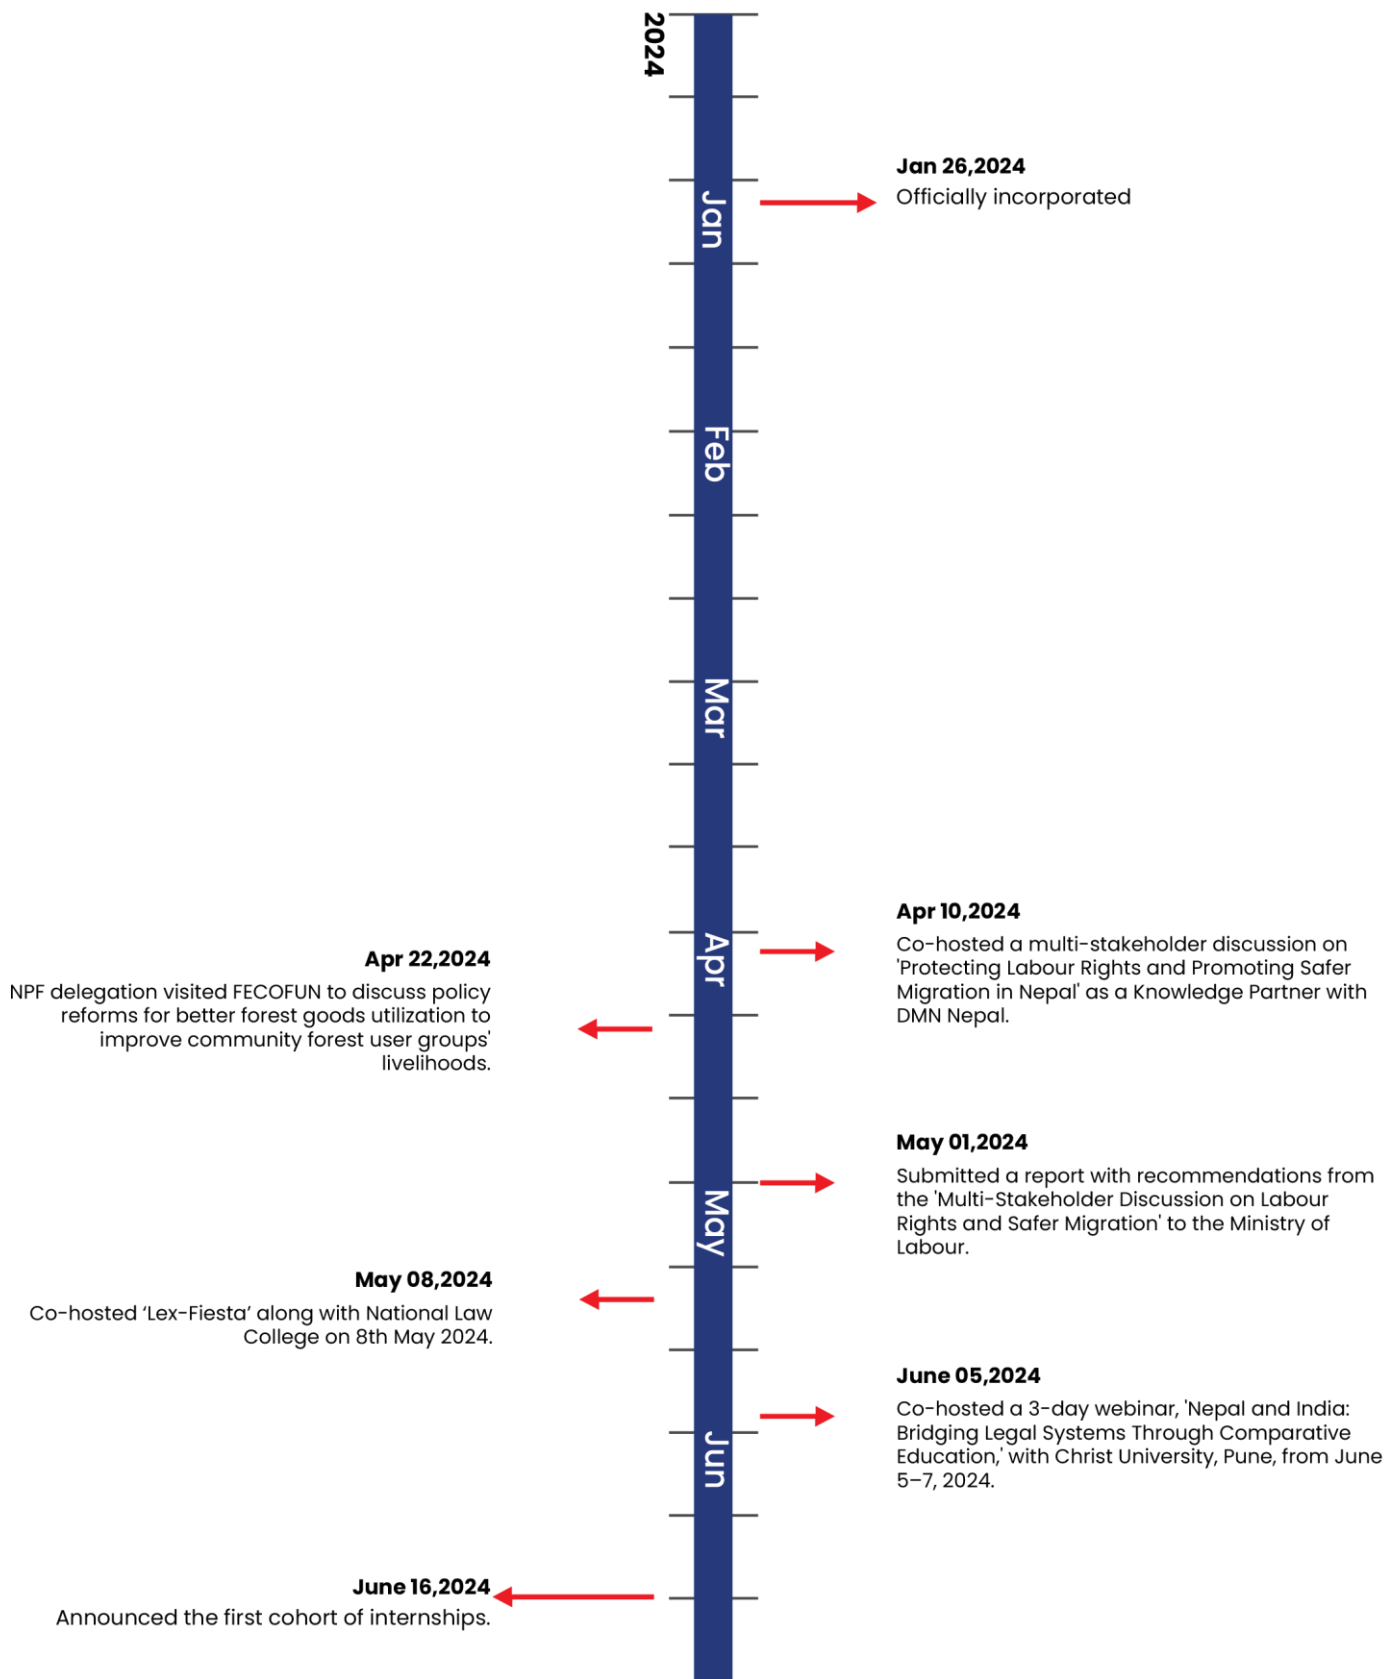

Since its inception, NPF has sought to harmonize national objectives with public perceptions. We have endeavored to link policy visions with practical realities and reap outcomes of national significance through transboundary collaborations. Our organization seeks to build the much-needed bridges that will connect us with one another and with the outer world that is yet to truly discover us. For the future that Nepal awaits—and the Nepal that future demands—NPF strives to stand as a force for good that truly educates, enlightens, and elevates.

The Honourable Minister expressed her optimism about the impact of the findings and recommendations presented by the NPF and acknowledged the significance of the report, stating that it would serve as evidence to establish the well-being of thousands of students. She committed to taking necessary actions, noting that she would do everything within her capacity to crystallize this into a policy across all educational levels in the country.

Image 11: Joint meeting with Hon. Bidya Bhattarai, MoEST.

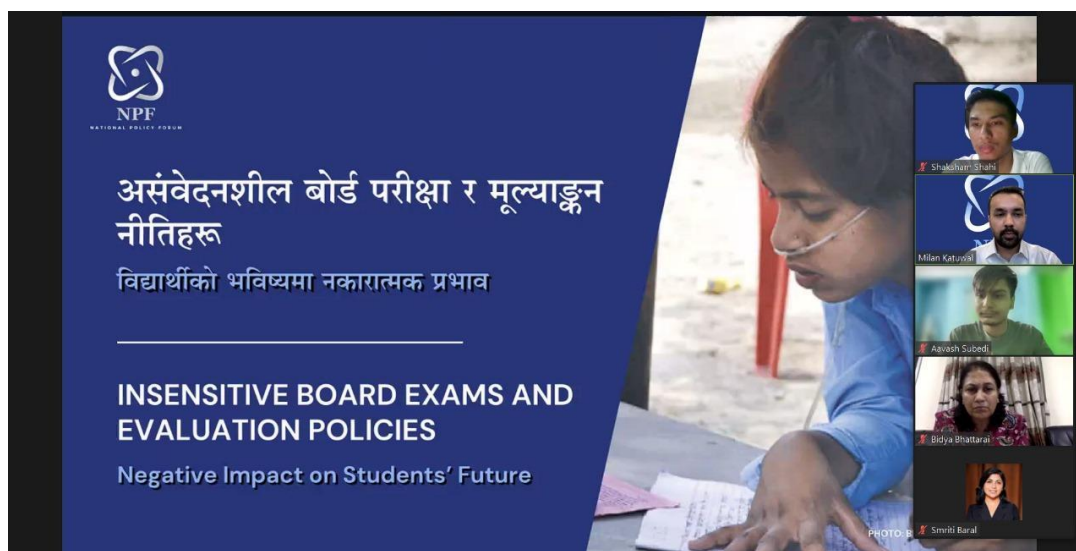

Image 12: Presentation of the report before the Minister.

The report sheds light on a critical gap in Nepal's education system across all levels where students are forced to take exams despite medical emergencies, family crises, or mental health issues. With no provision for emergency rescheduling, students often face detrimental consequences, such as risking their health or losing an entire academic year. This lack of flexibility leaves many without support during their most vulnerable moments.

During this, NPF also initiated a petition on SpeakUp Nepal's platform to garner wide engagements from where 98 signatures were collected.
